

Einladung

Buchpräsentation

Said Hayati/
Paul S. Stevenson,

Peri Hermeneias
by Paul the Persian

Since October 2015 Mr Said Hayati is studying Syriac Theology in Salzburg. Said Hayati was born in Karaj, Iran and studied Political Science. In the last two decades he saved some Syriac sources which have been bought before the Iranian revolution in 1979. He updated them with international friends and donated 30 DVDs (Syriac and Semitic sources) to the National Library of Iran and some other libraries. He has published numerous articles in various journals, as well as two books. One of them is the Commentary of Paul the Persian on Aristotle's Peri Hermeneias.

13.00 Uhr

Donnerstag, 17. März 2016

FB Bibelwissenschaft und Kirchengeschichte - HS 106

In the 6th century Paul the Persian used his own pen to write a summary of Aristotle's Peri Hermeneias in the Persian language. Severus Sebokht translated it into Syriac. This book is a transcription and translation of the Syriac manuscript of Paul the Persian's Peri Hermeneias and a comparison of it with Aristotle's original Greek text.

Institute for Humanities & Cultural Studies

9 789244 269388

٨٠٠٠٠ تومان

Peri Hermeneias

By

Paul the Persian

Translated by

Said Hayati

with

Paul S. Stevenson

Institute for Humanities & Cultural Studies

 UNIVERSITÄT
SALZBURG
FB Bibelwissenschaft
& Kirchengeschichte

Syrisches
Institut
Salzburg

Syriac
Theological Seminary
Salzburg