Reviews:

E.R. Hudcová, Austrian History Yearbook

M. Strauss, Journal of Austrian Studies.

D. Malcolm, Poetry Salzburg Review

An important, fresh collection of poems (and poets) that fills a void in German-language literature in English translation. It allows for a multitude of voices to be heard in English for the first time—or for the second and third time in a different context. Parker recognizes the need for these voices, especially at a time when the topic of refugees and the refugee crisis is foremost in the mind again in Europe and North America. - Eva R. Hudcová

Flammarion: sections of Jacques Thuillier, History of Art (2003, 525 pp.); Henry Zerner,

Renaissance Art in France (2004, 474 pp.); Orlan (with D. Dusinberre, 2004, 247 pp.).

La Monnaie (Belgian National Opera): programs (2005-2007).

Rosas: program (2006).

Editions du Patrimoine: Chateau de Blois (2003, 56 pp.), Chateau de Chenonceau (2003, 65 pp.).

Novels

Seattle, or In the Meantime. Beautiful Dreamer Press, 2021 (262 pp.).

“A love letter to Seattle. Wry, fun, tender, and smart.” - Ruth Dickey, Executive Director, National Book Foundation

A Budget Traveler's Guide to the Museums of Europe. Lethe Press, 2017 (172 pp.).

“There’s nothing accidental about the tourist and the well-curated musings found in the pages of J.M. Parker’s A Budget Traveler's Guide to the Museums of Europe. With crisp, pointed, and frequently beautiful prose employed at times in a manner that's almost Jamesian, Parker allows his narrator to drift through the continent, highlighting the most lauded European statuary and art set against the most cautionary of human foibles” - Philip Dean Walker
